

A project by Enrico Policardo, documenting community-led housing across the UK: cohousing, community land trusts, self-build, cooperative living and other hard-to-categorise human initiatives.

Residents are asked the same question: is this the future you were dreaming of?

A speculative tool to imagine different futures, re-invent the present, re-discuss pasts we never knew about.

Noch-Nicht

ENRICO POLICARDO (B. 1982, GORIZIA, ITALY) Photographer and artist based in London. His work examines how systems of power organise everyday life - housing and who gets to shape it, waste and what a consumer economy throws away, and the contested ground of borders. This Was Tomorrow, supported by Arts Council England, documents communities across the UK who took housing into their own hands.

Creative Director of ReThinkable Festival on the Italy-Slovenia border (Nova Gorica / Gorizia, European Capital of Culture 2024-2026) and an Affiliate Research Fellow at the University of Nova Gorica.

This Was Tomorrow: Is This the Future We Were Dreaming Of?

© Enrico Policardo 2026 / thiswastomorrow.co.uk / info@enricopolicardo.com

This Was Tomorrow is supported using public funding by Arts Council England

Supported using public funding by

ARTS COUNCIL
ENGLAND